Total Award: $75,000 over 1 year

To support the Rockwood Leadership Program, a consulting and training organization specializing in teaching the skills necessary for successful collaboration and leadership. This is accomplished through training leaders and coalitions in individual and collaborative leadership skills, and in participating as broadly as possible in discussions and debates about the role of leadership and collaboration in building a movement for environmental sustainability, community health and social justice. Rockwood will build on the first five years of the organization by launching an improved website, developing trainer materials, increasing fundraising, board development, and expanding its capacity to deliver high-quality trainings to meet growing demand.
